

ALL IS SETTLED AND PEACE REIGNS

Differences Between Town of Ashland and the Railroad Settled.

TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT

Statement of Concessions Made and Concessions Accepted, Memorial Day.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ASHLAND, VA., May 16.—The difference between the town of Ashland and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company was finally settled Thursday at a meeting of the Town Council, when an ordinance was adopted by the following vote: Messrs. C. W. Crew, D. B. Cox, S. J. Dowell and Nat Lancaster, for adoption; and G. E. Delany, for adoption, Charles Stebbins, against adoption.

The controversy was brought about by a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Council, last fall, after which counsel was employed by that body to look after the interests of the town.

The principal matters settled are as follows:
The town agrees that the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company shall have the right to perpetually maintain its two main tracks and its present siding and Y, and the land occupied by these two tracks and siding shall remain the absolute fee simple property of the said company, and the company shall have access to the two main tracks and siding and shall have use of and access to the necessary land on each side thereof for operating, maintaining, repairing and reconstructing the same, and the right to put down, maintain and operate on either or both sides, or between said tracks, whatever necessary underground conduits or pipes or other arrangements that may be necessary for the operation of telegraph and telephone wires of the said company, except for the purpose of laying other tracks than those provided for herein, and except for the erection of telegraph and telephone poles, unless request to do so by law. In the event that underground development is necessary to change the motive power and operate said road by electricity, then such modification in the said tracks and appliances shall be made as may be necessary for that purpose.

The company shall have perpetual right to receive and discharge its passengers, their baggage, packages and express packages into and from its stations or stopping places as now used, and to construct and maintain in said street such platforms and landings as may be proper for safety without unreasonable interference with traffic in the street.

Memorial Day will be celebrated at Woodland Cemetery on Saturday, May 23d, at 5 o'clock P. M. The Ladies' confederate society will, as usual, decorate the graves of the 400 and odd soldiers who were laid to rest there. Hon. D. C. Richardson will make the address before the society. Rev. Dr.

Topnotch Raincoats

They top any others at the price in quality, grace and fit. $12.50 to $30. Spin in!

Our Sack Suits are in the top o' fashion. $10 to $30.

Our Straw Hats put style on top of you and comfort beneath. $1 to $5.

Our "JAY-ELL" Suit special is the tippest value that ever sat astride of a ten-dollar bill—one that will fit YOU. Others up to $30.

From top to toe we can supply every dress need of senior or junior at moderate cost. One just price—just one price.

Jacobs & Levy

Coleman, of St. James's Episcopal Church, will offer the prayer. Primary meetings will be held at the several upper precincts in Hanover county to-morrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock to elect delegates to the Roanoke convention. The meeting in Ashland will be held in Crew's Hall.

FORMER VIRGINIA PASTOR INSTALLED AT HENDERSON

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HENDERSON, N. C., May 16.—Very interesting installation services were held here Thursday night in the Presbyterian Church, when the Rev. J. H. McClure, formerly of Buena Vista, Va., was installed as pastor. The Rev. W. D. Morton, D. D., a former pastor, now of Rocky Mount, N. C., presided and charged the congregation. The Rev. W. McC. White, D. D., of Raleigh, preached the opening sermon. The charge to the pastor was delivered by the Rev. E. P. Bradley, of Tunksville, N. C. The session was well attended and the congregation and community at large. Mr. McClure begins his pastorate under happy and encouraging circumstances.

Mr. Bogges Here.
Mr. P. M. Bogges, representing Dewey Brothers Company, of Blaine, Chester, O., is registered at Ruester's. Mr. Bogges is looking over this section preparatory to the introduction of Dewey's best flour in Richmond.

MAY FIX NEW RATE FOR DAY AND NIGHT

Entire Telephone Tariff for North Carolina May Undergo Change.

DAY RATES ARE LOW ENOUGH

Company Declares Business in State Has Not Been Profitable. Governor's Return.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RALEIGH, N. C., May 16.—In connection with the consideration of the petition of the Southern Bell Telephone Company to be allowed to abolish the reduced night rates for long distance service between points within the State of North Carolina, just heard by the Corporation Commission, the commission has decided to open the whole matter of both night and day rates and the advisability of promulgating a new single rate to apply to both day and night service. One of the contentions of the Southern Bell Company is that it costs even more to furnish night service than day service. The telephone company insists that the present scale for day rates is none too high for the whole service day and night. Vice-President W. T. Gentry, of the Bell Company, asserted to the commission that he knows of no telephone company that has been able to extend its lines and install exchanges from the earnings of the investments, but that this work has always been accomplished only by issuing additional stock and bonds for that purpose.

He claims that the North Carolina investments of the Southern Bell have never yielded more than 6 per cent, and oftentimes less than that, with no provision for extension of lines. The commission will have all the evidence and arguments heard Friday and Tuesday, and go over it again carefully before passing judgment on the petition.

Return of Governor.
Governor Glenn will return to Raleigh Sunday from his three days' attendance on the conference of Governors in Washington. With President Roosevelt on the conservation of the national resources, but will spend only a few hours with his family at the mansion before taking up his work in the campaign for State prohibition, having an engagement to Wilson for a prohibition speech Sunday night.

On Monday he will be at Henderson; Tuesday at Smithfield and Hope Mills (the latter at night); Wednesday at Reidsford, and Thursday at Fayetteville. In fact, he has a string of appointments that will keep him in the field every day until the election on Tuesday of the following week.

Land Company Chartered.
The Shaw Land Company, of Charlotte, is chartered for the development of city and country lands, especially town lots, the capital being $25,000, subscribed by J. R. Smith Co., J. J. Edwards, James Deton, and others, for operating a tobacco warehouse.

An order is received in the office of the Adjutant-General of the North Carolina National Guard for all Gatling and Colt's automatic guns in the possession of the guard, to be shipped at once to Springfield, Mass., for adaptation for the use of Model O 1906 ammunition.

Miss Julia, moment, daughter of the lamented Dr. A. H. Moment, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has been chosen by the trustees of Peace Institute here as a member of the faculty for next year. She is an exceptionally cultured young woman, being a graduate of Ontario College, Whitby, Canada.

CLUSTER SPRINGS CLOSING.
Commencement to Begin Next Saturday, With Field Day Exercises.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CLUSTER SPRINGS, VA., May 16.—The forty-third commencement exercises of Cluster Springs Academy will take place May 30th, 31st and June 1st. This will be the program:
Saturday, May 30th, 8:30 P. M.—Annual field day.
Sunday, May 31st, 11:30 A. M.—Annual sermon by the Rev. E. B. McClure, D. D., associate editor of the Central Presbyterian, Richmond, Va.
Sunday, May 31st, 8 P. M.—Annual address before J. M. C. A. by the Rev. P. B. Hill, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Lynchburg, Va.
Monday, June 1st, 11 A. M.—Annual address by Dr. Bruce R. Payne, professor of moral philosophy, University of Virginia, followed by award of diplomas, announcement of school honors, etc.

Monday, June 1st, 8:30 P. M.—Final celebration of the Literary Society, consisting of declamation contest and debate.
The session just drawing to a close has been the most successful in the history of the school, the work has been the best, the health of both faculty and students excellent, and the attendance shows a gain of 20 per cent. over last session, representing ten States and United States of Colombia.

GOOD WORK BY AMATEURS.
"Among the Breakers" Presented in Highly Creditable Manner.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PAMPLIN CITY, VA., May 16.—Last Tuesday night the public witnessed one of the most enjoyable entertainments given in this town for several years. The well-known old drama, "Among the Breakers," was presented by amateurs to a large and appreciative audience, for the benefit of the new High School building. The local characters were well selected, and every player acquitted himself splendidly. The production showed very careful work on the part of each individual player, and at no time was there the slightest hitch in the performance.

The cast of characters was as follows:
David Murray, keeper of Fairpoint Light, Mr. O. E. Peterson; Larry Dine, his assistant, Mr. R. L. Franklin; Hon. Bruce Hunter, Mr. H. T. Terry; Clarence Hunter, his ward, Mr. M. Warren; Peter Savagah, newspaper reporter, Mr. C. C. Rice; Scud Hunter's colored servant, Mr. C. F. Harvey; Minnie Daze, Hunter's niece, Miss Grace Peterson; Boss Starbright, "cat on the waves," Miss Willsie Thornton; "Mother Cary," a reputed fortune-teller, Mrs. Lou Foster; Biddy Bean, an Irish girl, Miss Jessie May Walker.

Such was the success of the play that an effort is being made to carry it to other towns, and it is likely that the company will accept some of the invitations to produce elsewhere. In this way it is hoped a very good addition will be made to the fund now being raised for a new High School building.

The Rev. J. A. Paisley, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, will leave in a few days for Greensboro, N. C., to attend the meeting of the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, as the representative of Roanoke Presbytery.

BUXTON'S CANDIDACY INDORSED BY FORTY-FOUR COMMITTEE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 16.—The Forsyth Democratic executive committee met here to-day and unanimously indorsed State Senator J. C. Buxton's candidacy for Congress.
The committee also ordered township primaries to be held May 30th and the county convention June 4th for the selection of delegates to State and congressional conventions.

To Add New Buildings.
STAUNTON, VA., May 16.—The Board of trustees of Stuart Hall, formerly Virginia Normal Institute, at a meeting which adjourned this morning, decided to enter on extensive improvements, erecting one or more additional large buildings and some necessary buildings, such as gymnasium and infirmary.

Miss Maria Pendleton Duval was re-elected principal for another term of five years.
FREDERICKSBURG'S SUMMER NORMAL.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FREDERICKSBURG, VA., May 16.—Big preparations are being made for the coming Summer Normal Institute to be held in this city, beginning June 29th, and ending July 31st. The buildings of the Fredericksburg College will be used. Many inquiries are coming in, and it is expected that this institute will be the largest attended of any in the State.

Kindergarten Closes.
The Christ Church Kindergarten held its closing exercises on Friday afternoon, in the presence of many friends, and a little people entertained with such exercises as are a part of the kindergarten every morning.

The kindergarten is no longer an experiment, but an established part of the parish work. Miss Georgia C. West, the kindergarten teacher, has been assigned to the new school, and Miss Mabel Epps.
The kindergarten will open for registration on September 10th.

Visiting Old Battlefield.
Colonel R. E. Cowart, of Dallas, Texas, who fought all around this section of the country during the Civil War, is visiting in the city and is going over the old battlefield. During the war he was a member of the Sixth Georgia Infantry, Brigade, Hood's Division, and was twice wounded—once at Fort Harrison and again at Drewry's Bluff. He was a great friend of Major Robert W. Hunter, and called on him yesterday to renew his old acquaintance.

Colored People at Banquet.
The first annual banquet of the Gamma Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity of the Virginia Union University, was given at Miller's Hotel Friday evening. President Beale Elliott was toastmaster. The following toasts were responded to: "The Organization," Beale Elliott; "Alma Mater," J. M. Lewis; "The Ladies," C. A. Cleveland. Short speeches were delivered by R. T. Hill and Dr. J. Meade Benson. The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. J. E. Jones.

Robert Downing Speaks To-Day.
Robert Downing, the converted actor, will be the speaker at the noon meeting of the Virginia Union University, which will be held at the Colonial Theatre at 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Haddon S. Watkins will sing.
Another chapter of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, of Ayden, Pitt county, capital, $25,000 authorized and $1,500 subscribed, by J. R. Smith Co., J. J. Edwards, James Deton, and others, for operating a tobacco warehouse.

An order is received in the office of the Adjutant-General of the North Carolina National Guard for all Gatling and Colt's automatic guns in the possession of the guard, to be shipped at once to Springfield, Mass., for adaptation for the use of Model O 1906 ammunition.

Miss Julia, moment, daughter of the lamented Dr. A. H. Moment, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has been chosen by the trustees of Peace Institute here as a member of the faculty for next year. She is an exceptionally cultured young woman, being a graduate of Ontario College, Whitby, Canada.

CLUSTER SPRINGS CLOSING.
Commencement to Begin Next Saturday, With Field Day Exercises.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CLUSTER SPRINGS, VA., May 16.—The forty-third commencement exercises of Cluster Springs Academy will take place May 30th, 31st and June 1st. This will be the program:
Saturday, May 30th, 8:30 P. M.—Annual field day.
Sunday, May 31st, 11:30 A. M.—Annual sermon by the Rev. E. B. McClure, D. D., associate editor of the Central Presbyterian, Richmond, Va.
Sunday, May 31st, 8 P. M.—Annual address before J. M. C. A. by the Rev. P. B. Hill, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Lynchburg, Va.
Monday, June 1st, 11 A. M.—Annual address by Dr. Bruce R. Payne, professor of moral philosophy, University of Virginia, followed by award of diplomas, announcement of school honors, etc.

Monday, June 1st, 8:30 P. M.—Final celebration of the Literary Society, consisting of declamation contest and debate.
The session just drawing to a close has been the most successful in the history of the school, the work has been the best, the health of both faculty and students excellent, and the attendance shows a gain of 20 per cent. over last session, representing ten States and United States of Colombia.

GOOD WORK BY AMATEURS.
"Among the Breakers" Presented in Highly Creditable Manner.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PAMPLIN CITY, VA., May 16.—Last Tuesday night the public witnessed one of the most enjoyable entertainments given in this town for several years. The well-known old drama, "Among the Breakers," was presented by amateurs to a large and appreciative audience, for the benefit of the new High School building. The local characters were well selected, and every player acquitted himself splendidly. The production showed very careful work on the part of each individual player, and at no time was there the slightest hitch in the performance.

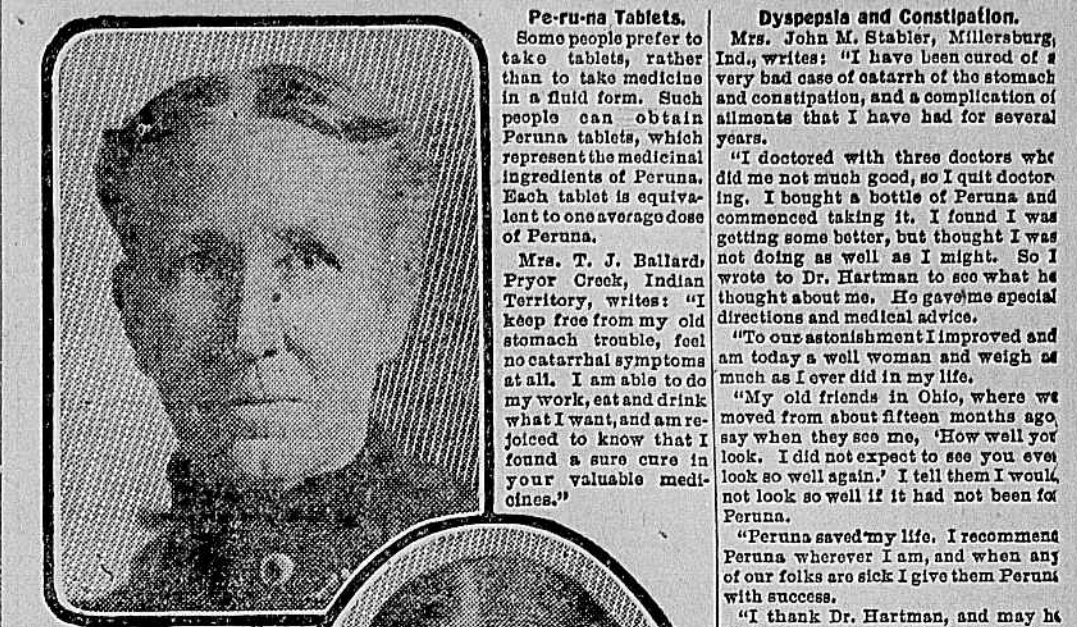

The cast of characters was as follows:
David Murray, keeper of Fairpoint Light, Mr. O. E. Peterson; Larry Dine, his assistant, Mr. R. L. Franklin; Hon. Bruce Hunter, Mr. H. T. Terry; Clarence Hunter, his ward, Mr. M. Warren; Peter Savagah, newspaper reporter, Mr. C. C. Rice; Scud Hunter's colored servant, Mr. C. F. Harvey; Minnie Daze, Hunter's niece, Miss Grace Peterson; Boss Starbright, "cat on the waves," Miss Willsie Thornton; "Mother Cary," a reputed fortune-teller, Mrs. Lou Foster; Biddy Bean, an Irish girl, Miss Jessie May Walker.

Such was the success of the play that an effort is being made to carry it to other towns, and it is likely that the company will accept some of the invitations to produce elsewhere. In this way it is hoped a very good addition will be made to the fund now

FAITHFUL HOUSEWIVES OF THE UNITED STATES

Send Grateful Tributes to Dr. Hartman

For Benefits Received From Pe-ru-na.

MRS. D. C. NOLAN.

No More Throat Trouble

Mrs. D. C. Nolan, Gen. Kan., writes: "I have no more throat trouble, thanks to Peruna. It is the only medicine I care to have. I always feel safe when I have it in the house."

She has used Peruna for nine years, and I ought to know about it. Peruna has helped me a great many times, and I shall praise it to every one of my friends."

Every since Peruna was introduced to the public thirty years ago, the housewife has been an ever faithful friend to Peruna. She it is that has seen the practical benefits of the use of Peruna in the family.

When the baby has snuffles or cold she gives a few doses of Peruna, instead of filling the system with the doctor's drugs.

When the school children have coughs or colds she again resorts to Peruna.

When any member of the family is afflicted with catarrh, either in its acute form or chronic, Peruna is resorted to. In large number of minor ailments she finds Peruna a never-failing remedy.

All this has won the confidence of the housewife in Peruna, which cannot be easily shaken by the statements of people who know nothing of Peruna, having never had any personal experience in its use.

Mrs. Charles Gloyne, 1707 New Jersey Avenue, Kansas City, Kan., writes:

"Peruna is to the system what a good watch dog is to the home, a protector against harm. I have found it a safe friend for a sick woman. It drives out disease and protects her from colds and the dreadful consequences."

Mrs. Augustus Pauline Ochs.

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. Augustus Pauline Ochs, R. F. D. 2, North English, Iowa, writes: "I took Peruna for three years. I suffered from systemic catarrh, and had pains in my right side so I could hardly stand."

"I am 60 years old, and am now doing all my housework. I am in the best of health, and thank Dr. Hartman for his advice and medicine."

Miss Robertie Lofton, Minn., writes: "I suffered with systemic catarrh, and Peruna gave me almost complete relief."

Mrs. J. M. Stabler.

Peruna saved my life. I recommend Peruna wherever I am, and when any of our folks are sick I give them Peruna with success.

"I thank Dr. Hartman, and may he live many years more to go on with the good work. Tongue cannot express the gratitude that my husband, children and I owe to Dr. Hartman for the kindness he has shown toward me during my sickness."

"It is on the public to know what Peruna and Dr. Hartman have done for me."

An astonishing number of families use Peruna continuously for the various petty ailments to which the family is liable.

Manufactured by The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio

Great American Historians

HENRY ADAMS.

By Professor William E. Dodd, Randolph-Macon College.

Henry Adams, the second member of the trio of great American historians of the present generation, cannot be said to have his home anywhere in particular. He owns a beautiful residence in Washington, nearly opposite the White House, but unfortunately for his countrymen, its doors are nearly always locked and barred, while the distinguished owner sails the ocean highways of the world in his private yacht. He is also at home in Boston, where so many of his ancestors have lived, and where his many kinsmen are counted among the most honored citizens.

Henry Adams is a member of the "great family" in America, and he is himself worthy of the name borne by two of our greatest Presidents. Beginning as simple seamen, which vocation was later abandoned to that of farmer, the Adamses have grown in strength of character, in refinement and accomplishment, and in education. In transcendent abilities as publicists and statesmen, until they have eclipsed all other families in this country. No family in America has furnished two such able Presidents.

But no man's family makes him great; it may increase his chances of success if he is himself worthy and industrious. Henry Adams was born in 1839, the son of Charles Francis Adams the elder, of Boston; he graduated from Harvard in 1858, and became a member of the North American Review. But Adams's interests were centered in history, American history in particular.

For very strong reason, perhaps, for this absorbing interest was the possession, jointly with his four brothers, of the famous collection of Adams papers, the most important mass of historical material in the country at that time, and only last valuable to-day than the vast storehouse of manuscripts now in the Library of Congress. The heads of the Adams family, since the days of the Revolution, have been keen students of history, as well as "its makers." They have, therefore, been careful to collect all kinds of letters and documents bearing upon our history for a period of a hundred and fifty years, with the result that Mr. Charles Francis Adams, the present head of the family, now has in his custody for himself and brothers this magnificent collection.

This equipped and thus rooted in the very foundations of our national evolution, Mr. Henry Adams began about 1860 his great work as a historian. In one way only was this superb handicap put in his way. He saw things naturally from the Adams point of view, which, happily, however, was the nationalist outlook. It is kind of a drawback for the historical student to be bound up with the fortunes of any great family of the country whose institutions he intends to portray.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

And what added to this difficulty was the fact that he was a Massachusetts man, "bred in the bone," and his biases and prejudices were not only filled by his own great-grandfather and Thomas Jefferson, the Virginian. Not only so, but his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, had suffered from the management and intrigues of the great Virginian leaders of the early nineteenth century, and he was a member of the Adams family.

literature, it ranks with the foremost, and, like most of those, Mommson's "Home," Ranke's "Reformation," and Macaulay's "England," it has a dominating purpose.

For purpose, quite unconsciously to the author, appears clearly, though not protrusively, the justification of John Quincy Adams. John Quincy Adams, finding in 1788 that leading New Englanders contemplated secession from the Union, deserted the friends of his earlier years, the Federalists who had been the mainstays of his father's and Washington's administrations, and gave his hearty support to Mr. Jefferson. It was a patriotic act, and one for which the country must ever thank the courageous second Adams. But the nation was touched and the Federalists were shocked. The Federalists turned their allegiance to New England's greatest opponent, and laid bare to the astonished eyes of the world the semi-reasonable schemes of their leading men. And, doubtless, the Federalists, the Cabinet and the Lodge, have not yet learned to love or admire the author of this heroic act.

Macaulay raised William of Orange to the rank of a god and forever branded James II. as an English Mephistopheles, as Mommson made a saint of the libertine and rake, and Caesar, so Henry Adams adds the last word to the justification of his grandfather and brands the Quineys and Cabots as enemies of the republic. No one has ever undertaken to undo or refute the masterly arguments, arguments which are the backbone of his work, and which enter into the final pages of history. And one of the reasons Adams could write with fairness—though not with unshakable confidence—was the fact that John Quincy Adams had deserted extreme New England and joined hands with the Virginia dynasty—Jefferson, Madison and Monroe.

When Adams's book appeared he was at once hailed as the greatest American historian. Baym himself suffered temporary eclipse. And it is a question to-day whether the nervous, half-blind historian of the Northern States, the pale, thin, and old man of Charles Francis Adams, President Lincoln's able minister to England in our sad war times. Without undertaking to settle the point, the writer simply desires to call attention of Virginia readers and students to this great historical work, one of the frequently found on the shelves of Southern libraries.

In this time of large co-operative undertakings, it is a book world, when advertisements are so many and so misleading, the serious-minded book-buyer and student may always fall back upon Adams or Parkman and have with absolute assurance that he has the best in hand when he turns their pages. It is a good time now for all whose libraries have not already been adorned with these works to buy Parkman can be had of any book-dealer, and Adams and Lea may be secured by writing to Scribner's and the Macmillans, respectively.

The next and last of these letters on great American historians of to-day will treat of James Ford Rhodes, the historian of the Civil War.

Crematory at Work.
The City Crematory is again in full blast, having been closed down over two months for repairs.

IF YOU THINK OF A JUNE WEDDING THEN WHY NOT LUMSDEN'S SILVER

A Most Exclusive Collection of GOLD AND SILVER ARTICLES FOR WEDDING GIFTS.

C. LUMSDEN & SON, Jewelers and Silversmiths, 731 MAIN STREET.

The Really Important Points About a Refrigerator are:

Is it a good, sanitary, ice-saving, food-keeper?
Odorless, Colonial, Erie and Niagara well known for these qualities.

The prices on these goods have been reduced. They are here at $8.50, $10.00, $12.00 and up.

Go-Carts

Hood Carts, the kind that fold up close are growing in demand. We have a very good assortment and can please you.

Folding Carts at

$1.69, $2.25 and up.

Imperial Excelsior

As good as the best. Better than many. Quality considered, cheaper than any.

There is no occasion for your wife to fret about the heat. You can help her keep cool and smiling.

Get her an Excelsior Gas Range, it saves Time, Money and Temper.

Linoleum remnants, two, three and four yards each, two yards wide, only 60c per yard.

All goods marked in plain figures.

Get her an Excelsior Gas Range, it saves Time, Money and Temper.

Linoleum remnants, two, three and four yards each, two yards wide, only 60c per yard.

All goods marked in plain figures.

Get her an Excelsior Gas Range, it saves Time, Money and Temper.

Linoleum remnants, two, three and four yards each, two yards wide, only 60c per yard.

All goods marked in plain figures.